

ELIT 523 TRAGEDY (404)

In this course, the student is to learn the technical and thematic characteristics of tragedy as a genre starting from the Classical period and to recognize these characteristics through the works of a certain period or different periods, identify the differences, and analyse them with a critical and comparative approach.